

Oral Health WELLNESS

Share a smile! Celebrate Dental Hygiene Month!

Take charge of your health to put yourself on the path to wellness. Health and wellness means living life fully with vitality and meaning. Wellness looks different for each individual and evolves as our lifestyles change.

Your overall health includes more than your outward appearance. Health starts on the inside, and that means taking care of your mouth, teeth, and gums. The October LiveWell newsletter shares encouraging tips on maintaining good dental hygiene habits for improved general wellness.

Good oral hygiene starts with good nutrition

What you eat and when you eat has a major effect on nearly every part of your body, including your mouth, teeth, and gums. A diet rich in fresh fruits and vegetables while limiting refined carbohydrates and sugars keeps your body in tip-top shape. Overall poor nutrition, like the overconsumption of sugary beverages and highly fermentable carbohydrates (like breads, crackers, and even ripe bananas) can lead to tooth decay and periodontal disease. Here are a few tips to help protect your oral health:

- 1. Limit consumption of highly processed and sugary foods and beverages. Instead, choose a variety of fruits, lots of dark, leafy greens, and beverages such as flavored water.
- 2. Brush between meals. Twice a day has long been the standard, but if you want to keep your breath fresh and your mouth healthy, brush after lunch, snacks, and that midday cup of joe.
- 3. Chew sugarless gum that contains xylitol. Gum helps remove some of the food stuck to your teeth and xylitol is a natural sweetener that can help reduce cavities. It also increases saliva to help neutralize acids.

Water may seem boring, but you can spruce it up any way you choose! Try adding mint, cucumbers, or fresh berries. Food-grade essential oils such as lemon or lime are a great option and are less acidic than the actual juice itself!!

What Does Wellness Mean to You?

LiveWELL
October 2018

What Does Wellness Mean To You?

Wellness to me means loving the sum of all your parts—mentally, physically and emotionally. It means taking that time in the day to do something that makes you happy and contributes to that overall love of yourself—whether it's working out or volunteering or reading a book or finally going to that doctor's appointment you've been putting off.

How long have you been at Kolbe Corp?

I celebrated three years this past August.

Do you have a wellness goal?

I am a self-defense instructor and student in Krav Maga, and my wellness goal is to achieve my black belt within the next few years.

Which challenges do you face in achieving your goal?

You have to put in the time and effort to train and it can be difficult when life gets busy to keep up that schedule when you have already had a taxing day. So I make the decision to go in, even when all I want to do is sit on the couch and eat about 50 cupcakes.

How has your workplace helped you in achieving your goal?

Kolbe Corp allows me to flex my schedule a bit and come in late on mornings that I teach and leave a little early on the days I train so I can make class. They know that self-defense is a passion of mine and they try to give me the time to do it knowing that it helps to improve my performance and handle stress.

Eating well can protect your teeth from decay and your mouth from harmful disease. Our October EatWell recipe is loaded with foods that keep your mouth and teeth healthy, and your body happy! Leafy greens, apples, and nuts all provide calcium and fiber with zero added sugars. This recipe can be made as a side to bring to a holiday potluck, or as your main dish for a quick and healthy weeknight meal!

ULTIMATE FALL SALAD

INGREDIENTS:

- 3 cups cubed butternut squash
- 3 tablespoons extra virgin olive oil, divided
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon kosher salt, divided
- 1/2 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper, divided
- 1 bunch chopped kale (about 6 cups)
- 3/4 cup chopped walnuts
- 1 1/2 cups cooked farro
- 1/2 cup dried cranberries
- 2 cups chopped apples (about 2-3 apples)
- 4 ounces shredded Pecorino-Romano cheese
- 1/4 cup freshly squeezed orange juice
- 1 tablespoon Dijon mustard
- 2 tablespoon chopped shallot

DIRECTIONS:

1. Toss cubed butternut squash in 2 tbsp extra virgin olive oil, cinnamon, 1/4 tsp salt, and 1/4 tsp ground pepper. Spread on baking sheet and roast for 30 minutes at 400°F, or until squash is tender and golden brown.
2. Meanwhile, cook farro according to instructions on package.
3. In a medium skillet over medium heat, toast walnuts until golden brown and fragrant.
4. Combine kale, farro, apples, squash, walnuts, cheese, and cranberries in a bowl.
5. For the dressing, whisk 1 tbsp olive oil, orange juice, mustard, shallot, 1/4 tsp salt, and 1/4 tsp pepper in a bowl until fully combined.
6. Dress salad immediately and serve.

WELLCommunity Help make our community smile

This Halloween, keep yourself, your kids, and your community healthy by donating your Halloween candy. After a night of trick-or-treating, you are guaranteed to have more candy than you know what to do with. Take some time to sift through, keep a small bowlful, and donate the rest. Many participating dental offices around the Valley will accept your candy and provide oral hygiene supplies to you or someone in need, in return.
